You will not need to do anything else. Enjoy the alpha version. The alpha version will be accessible until the official launch on September the 15th. I'll keep you informed of any changes or updates. Enjoy! As mentioned in my previous mail, the new installation tool has been uploaded to the website: The new installation tool is available from the website: I know that some of you have been following the development of Euroscoreboard.com and I want to thank you for your trust. The reason I am going to continue the development of Euroscoreboard is because I do believe in the project and I think it can be a great achievement. Euroscoreboard has been under development for about three months and I am very happy with what I have achieved so far. Euroscoreboard has been built as an online multiplayer game. The alpha version is more of an online multiplayer game, and I will continue to improve the game as long as the interest is there. That is, as long as we can have an online player base willing to play the game. As of now, I have started the process of contacting the Eurovision Song Contest broadcasters to see if we can make an agreement to make Euroscoreboard free to play for all interested broadcasters. Let me know your opinions about this. If you like the game, I will have a way to thank you. If you dislike the game, I will not be able to improve the game. This is the only way to improve the game. However, I have an open mind about this issue. If we can have a game built around the Eurovision Song Contest, it will be a great achievement. That being said, please do not email me about this issue. I will inform you when I find out whether there is a chance for an agreement to make the game free to play. I will also find out whether you want to buy or not the game. I know it is frustrating to have to wait, but hopefully there will be something to watch this year. Meanwhile, I will keep you informed about the game's progress and development. I know that some of you have been following the development of Euroscoreboard.com and I want to thank you for your trust. The reason 82157476af
